

Venue: National University of Singapore

Dates: June 29 to July 3, 2009

Official website: www.isaga2009.org

Official email: isaga2009info@ssagsg.org

Conference

Workshop

Exhibition

Learn to Game, Game to Learn

What is Unique about ISAGA2009?

40 years of ISAGA history, 40 years of experience in simulation and gaming

First time in ASIA after Japan

8 keynote speakers who have extensive experience in simulation and gaming for learning

Three major focuses (technology + content + methodology) in a single conference with comprehensive tracks/sessions

The only education conference with game-play interactions

Majority of participants are from overseas & this offers a good opportunity to showcase your simulation and games, including getting endorsement from overseas experts. A small step to reach out to the international gaming & learning community

Inexpensive fee for a 4.5 days conference (fee not more than S$900 with meals provided)

Who Should Attend?

Everyone! At least everyone who likes, or plays, or designs, or runs, or writes about, or does research into, or simply thinks about games, simulations, experiential learning exercises, and related methods.

Guest-of-honour: Mr Michael Yap, Deputy Director, MDA

Mr Michael Yap is the Deputy CEO at Media Development Authority (MDA), the national agency with overall responsibility for regulating and development of media sector in Singapore. Concurrently, he is the Executive Director of the national Interactive Digital Media (IDM) Programme Office, which has the charter for growing a new media industry fuelled by R&D and innovation.

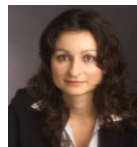

Keynote Speakers

Prof CHANG Shih-tung,
National Taiwan Education University, Taiwan

Prof CHEE Yam San,
Learning Sciences Lab, National Institute of Education, SG

Dr Sara de FREITAS
The Serious Games Institute, U.K.

Prof Gert Jan HOFSTEDE
Wageningen University, The Netherlands

Prof Ryohei NAKATSU
Interactive & Digital Media Institute, NUS, Singapore

Dr Vincent PETERS
International Simulation and Gaming Association

Prof Daniel Druckman,
George Mason University, Australia

Prof Dmitri N. KAVTARADZE,
Moscow State University

Main Sponsor

Organized by

Society of Simulation & Gaming of Singapore
www.ssagsg.org

Supported by

Sponsors

In Cooperation With

